

Dear Children's Pastor/Leader,

As one of the only ministries left in the New England states to offer a winter camp for junior age campers, I am taking this position seriously. I have Paul Veit back for a third year. I also am hoping that Pat McNally (former director) will be back as well to help with programming. Having these men minister year after year makes our great ministry even better.

Paul Veit (www.dinopastor.com) has a desire to see the gospel reach all people and does this through the unique vehicle of paleontology. Your junior age campers will see pictures, demonstrations, and other evidence that Paul uses to prove that the word of God is true. Dinopastor will be speaking on that same subject but always uses different stories and examples from around the country. Paul is active in several archeological digs and speaks about his passion year round. He is the Founder and Director of Declare God's Wonders, Inc., an evangelistic ministry, and The Dinosaur Encounter, a Creation Learning Center located in Bridgton, Maine. He is a gifted orator for families and kids alike.

Like every year, I change the theme and a few other things. The theme this year is "Back To Reality". Many people in the church today say that they believe the Bible to be true, yet pick and choose from the Bible what they want to believe. Reality is from God; He created it and sustains it. If I want to know what reality is, I need to read and believe the word of God.

This year, depending on the individual youth groups and leaders, I have planned a Lip Sync Contest for Saturday afternoon. On our website, www.wmcamps.org, there is a list of the ten songs to choose from as well as the rules and judging criteria. I will have three judges help me award the best lip sync from all the participation groups. I hope you will be part of this event.

His mercy is new every morning,

Scott
